This is Stout . . .

This is Stout . . . our college . . . no longer solely within the confines of our small campus-world. In this critical year of the war, Stout classes are scattered through far-flung realms: in the Service, in industry, and in other strategic positions of leadership.

The same complications which enveloped the world threatened the publication of our TOWER, but overwhelming interest demanded this all-student year book. One semester was gone with no photographic record of student activities. Many of our fellow-students were gone, too — fighting for Stout's way of life — not on the football field, but on larger, rougher, and dirtier soil, with opponents who know no rules of fair play and with no referee to blow the whistle when the going is tough. It was possible to catch vivid glimpses of their kaleidoscopic experiences, however, through photographs sent by their parents. We anticipate that the ranks we have indicated are already out-dated, for ranks change, and all Stout men rise rapidly to greater heights. But in this book you will find their status as of early 1944.

The same interest which demanded a year book created it. Photographs in numbers great enough to fill several annuals poured into the Tower office. We became so impressed with them that we found ourselves crowding the pictures for fear of losing a one, and deleting the informal script we selected to style our Tower. We have wanted this to be, in every sense, a student publication. And so it is . . . built of your materials and of your time.

BURTON E. NELSON

Our Prexy . .

When your work at Stout is completed, the preparation for your chosen profession will not be finished. Though we feel that your training has laid a fine foundation upon which to build a successful career, if your studies stop, few promotional opportunities will be found along the road you travel.

Laboratory and shop demands upon your time have been heavy during your four years at Stout. Because it was necessary to become proficient at many skills, little time was left for cultural studies. Further preparation in the broader fields of education is essential to winning respect and confidence in any community. The study of history, literature, and the social sciences should absorb a considerable portion of your leisure time, for without this knowledge your civic interests and contacts will be materially limited.

Social contacts are important to you who desire to influence the opinions of the people to whom you are responsible. Familiarity with the home life, the problems, and the ideals of the community in which you serve should help in establishing respect and the rapport necessary between the school and the home. Effective teaching and intelligent leadership, whether in or out of the classroom, have never been more necessary than they will be during the initial period of your professional activities. May your performance reflect credit upon your Alma Mater.

. . . . and the Deans

CLYDE A. BOWMAN

Industrial Education*

The demand for men with strong technical training—equipped to teach—has increased greatly in this day of mechanized warfare and expanded defense activity. Clyde A. Bowman, Dean of Industrial Education, has kept his Division well abreast of the times. As Director of Summer Sessions, Dean Bowman has developed an outstanding graduate school destined to achieve even greater recognition in the post-war world.

RUTH E. MICHAELS

Home Economics*

A former Stout Institute student herself, Dean Ruth E. Michaels has gained the respect of the women students and of the women faculty by her ability to undertake and complete any task regardless of its magnitude. Under her direction the curriculum has been expertly revised to keep pace with the rapidly changing needs of a war-torn world. We consider her an authority on Home Economics and an unusually capable administrator.

We Go to our Classes . . .

As the clock on the Tower marks the approach of each new hour, we swarm from class to class. One hour finds us making pastry or operating a lathe, the next, diving in the pool or attending a lecture on economics. Between times you might look for us at the Inn, guzzling a coke, or stopping off at Lee's for a pencil. Comes noon, there's a mad rush for the cafeteria line or the dorm dining room, and a few minutes off to read our mail. Then we dash back to classes to paint a mural or to participate in a panel discussion on war marriages.

Stout's unique combination of technical and academic courses adds variety to our work. Yet Mickey—as well as the rest of us—finds her thoughts drawn away. It just is true—we miss our men.

If you've never learned to wink before you'll do so when learning to use a microscope in Biology. But who knows an amoeba or a paramecium who'll appreciate our attention! . . . And if the odor of rotten eggs, ether, or formalin bothered you before—you'll get over it after your course in Chemistry. . . . The Physics Lab is the scene of precise calculations in problems employing Boyle's Law, inertia, and the acceleration due to gravity—and woe befalls the student who errs even slightly.

Representation in mechanical drawing of geometric forms and perspective by orthographic projection, construction of pans, funnels, and pipes in metal-working classes, instruction in type setting and the operations of the linotype—all provide an opportunity for the exploration of mechanical skills and determination of interests. The shops were sparsely populated this year, but neither the Stout tradition of high-quality technical training nor the variety of its offerings was abandoned.

The war has made interesting changes in our I.E. building -- the women are invading our trades department, and greasy fingerprints are being left by feminine hands these days. We work with precision to develop skills, but are given an opportunity for specialization.

Chic and individual are the garments we dream up in Applied Dress Design, and drape on forms patterned after our own bodies. Future Battle Carnegies, we're addicts for Vogue and Harper fashions. . . . We create in Crafts, too—tooting leather, weaving, modelling in clay or carving in wood—and strive to make the finished articles express our own personalities.

Preparing tasty dishes before a critical audience and trying to talk at the same time . . . varying the ingredients in doughnuts or sponge cakes in order to obtain a perfect product . . . planning high or low cost diets . . . seeing the results of nutritional deficiencies by experimenting with white rats . . . conducting surveys and then sponsoring a breakfast campaign . . . presenting an assembly program with our own Frank Sinatra. Whoever said foods and dietetics courses were dull?

The Cafeteria—a place where faculty and students meet with a common motive—the place you enter with every intention of limiting yourself to a sandwich but, at the end of the line, find your tray loaded with the "special"—including a piece of Olga's apple pie. . . . And here are our youngest students, the darlings of the college. Some say we college gals get an education in nursery school—but confidentially—it's more like play. . . . And remember how we dreaded Home Management? We did until we actually entered the House and learned what jolly fun it was to flit around with a dust mop, to take Paul out riding, or to snatch a few minutes for a hand of bridge.

Memories . . . of this year and the preceding three . . . our amazement at suddenly finding ourselves classified as seniors . . . catching up on much needed rest after those nine long weeks of lesson plans, study halls, and test evaluations . . . the farewell parties for January grads . . . informal dinners in the cafeteria and parties in the gym . . . Louie's, Buster's, Corky's, and Herb's able leadership of our senior activities. . . . Buster's boisterous send-off reminding us of those other fellow-classmates now in the Service and scattered across the globe. These and other memories flash through our minds on graduation day as we recall the things we were always going to do but never got around to doing. We feel ourselves a part of a transition—being at the top, yet preparing to start anew. What seemed to have been four years of chaotic college living begins to resolve into order. We see a plan—we become part of a plan bigger than ourselves or our college.

Remember the Junior Prom last year? The war has raised havoc with traditions everywhere but we refused to abandon the event. Our officers went into a huddle and presto! we substituted air corps students from Eau Claire. Of course we would have preferred our male classmates now in Service and far from Stout, but it was nice for a change, wasn't it? Tentative plans for a sleigh ride remained tentative. You know, no snow, so we sponsored an open house in the gym with the seniors as guests. Yes, we surmounted obstacles and went places, are we're the Junior Class, Sophisticated Sophs at last!—and come our chance to scare the Frosh with the same tall tales playfully told us, and to pull the traditional pranks: taking them on snipe hunts, short shooting, crumbling crackers in their beds, using honey profusely (hard to get off, isn't it?), ticking alarm clocks set for the wee small hours, rolling doors shut, and locking lockers from innocent victims in the shower. Dirty tricks, but we went through the same experiences last year! We did our bit for the social calendar by sponsoring an all-school assembly dance with prizes for the Tudding Lily Dishes—and by working on the Yule Coffee Log. Our stock went up on the campus when we came out on top in the swimming races at this year's Water Carnival.

Freshman daze—typical of any freshman class. We were a band of timid, self-conscious kids, and plenty worried when we discovered that it was our job to decorate the halls for Homecoming. But we worked like bees and proved our capability for assuming responsibility. The genuine chickens and bunnies at our Barn-Dance created that certain atmosphere—and how did you like our Green Tea? We've learned a lot, and now we know that sometimes such back-breaking labor as building our Blarney Stone is rewarded by recognition. Or did our admirers kiss our Stone before they spoke? Yes, we made our place at Stoul and got off to a good start on our college careers.

Homecoming? How could the S. S. A. sponsor such an event with the depleted enrollment, gas rationing, and no football team? But we didn't let these obstacles upset us; we sponsored a war-time Homecoming which was a decided success.

Since the usual mid-winter formal was out of the question, we replaced it with a Mask Ball. By this time we were becoming adept at substitutions.

We bade farewell to our Prexie in January and Jo Quilling took over. At the onset of the second semester we concentrated effort on placing in power a form of government whereby students could have a voice in solving the problems of their group. Results were evidenced when representatives were elected from each class to work with us under faculty supervision.

The Intersociety Council, consisting of the presidents and secretaries from each of the four social groups, worked diligently this year revising the rushing rules. As a result, this year's freshmen were pledged this spring instead of next fall. The Council makes final decisions concerning common problems of the four social organizations and plans the Intersociety Tea.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The breakfast hike over dew-filled paths to Point Comfort . . . sizzling hot dogs held over cheery campfires . . . the interdorm progressive party beginning with the riotous mock wedding at Tainter Hall and ending with the Purple Sash Night Club at Lynwood Hall . . . Mr. Kranzusch's attempts to teach us girls the principles of repairing electrical apparatus in the Home Mechanics class . . . the luscious Scandinavian dainties at the Yule Coffee Log . . . the Blarney Stone and shamrocks at the Green Tea . . . and the feverish activities for our "Girl Get Your Girl" week-end . . . these were the major activities on the year's calendar for our Home Economics Club, the largest organization in the college.

The many are one . . . Hyperian Society

Neat balance of sense and nonsense—that's our Hyperian Society. Trips to the Memorial Library for story-telling hour and success in sponsoring the Red Cross drive at Scout have been as much a part of our calendar as the Ranch House rushing party, the Gypsy Tea Room with Miss Antrim's skillful fortune-telling, or the Old Hiedelberg Inn teas where students and faculty alike dunked pretzels in their root beer.

. . . S. M. A. Society

FIRST ROW: Helen Meyn, Catherine Nick, Miss Jeter, Advisor; Florine Lindow, Secretary; Joan Quilling, Donna Haywood, Alice Finzer, Vice-President; Nancy Roberts, Francis Rowe, Phyllis Knowles.

SECOND ROW: Mary Sipple, Joyce Wildner, Harlene Richards, Treasurer; Mary Dostek, Ruth Gilenbach, Arlene Hoeft, Bette Graper, Mary Rigger, Norma Olson, Mary Chevan.

PICTURES MISSING: Theo Benkert, President; Neva Hammeling.

We do'd it again—five lovely lassies on the Homecoming Court . . . the rainy hayride to the cottage party . . . Jacob . . . Jo's wild ape-laces . . . Fran's amusing impersonations and Dora's pantomimes. . . The traditional black and white dresses and the carnation corsages at the Valentine Tea. We have but one regret: no Sadie Hawkin's Week!

. . . . Philomathean Society

SECOND ROW: Bernice Blank, Marian Veight, Dorothy Norenberg, Treasurer; Elizabeth Lee, Jeanne Stoll, Vernelle LaPage, Rita Ryan, Elizabeth Hasslinger, Mary Adele Keating, Lillian Ivarson, Vervyle Traeger.

PICTURE MISSING Charlotte East, President.

Thanks for the memories—of the spooky Halloween Tea—of clever handmade articles at the Christmas sale—of the all-school dance—of our thrill at seeing two of our members become S.S.A. officers—of the excitement and fun of the trip to the Ice Follies—and of the pajama rushing-party at Keith's—"We thank you, so much!"

. . . Pallas Athene Society

Our pride in pretty Peggy, the Homecoming Queen
 . . . the picnic at Riverside Park with Zimmie's hilarious attempts at conducting group singing . . .
 the anxiety of Ranney and the rushees at being unable to open the cell doors at the jail . . . the "professional" snaps of the gang taken in front of the City Hall . . . the cuckoo-bridge game at La Pointe's . . .
 They are all vivid pictures in our gallery of memories.

W.A.A.

Some like bridge and some like knitting, but we are of hardier stock. A howling ball is right up our alley! Breakfast hikes or basketball games find us rarin' to go. Our contributions to the school: the production of a glamorous, if somewhat splashy, water carnival, and the sponsorship of an all-school service flag.

FIRST ROW: D. Mertz, L. Mertz, Brimer, Edberg, Vrieze, Schellin.
 SECOND ROW: I. Larson, Kieffer, Schoenwald, Schreiber, Neitzel, Kammerude, O'Connor, Dodge, Frano, Towers, Reichling.
 THIRD ROW: E. Brown, Sargent, Miss Antrim, Advisor; Helm, Barnard, R. Brown, Hougard, DeWitt, Sleight, Kranzusch, Van Dyke.

Y. W. C. A.

The "Y" members are congratulating themselves on the success of their World Student Service Fund drive. The Pan-American relations came in for much attention at their meetings, since the main study project centered around South America. The year came to a fitting close at the traditional Senior Picnic at Riverside.

FIRST ROW: Edberg, Gilles, Paff, E. Brown, Hart, Savage, Secretary; Lunde, President.
 SECOND ROW: Niffenegger, Ross, Palmer, Jerde, Helm, Reichling, Brimer, M. Lee, R. Brown, Koepke, E. Madison, Barnard.
 THIRD ROW: Parske, M. Cox, Oeltmeier, P. Johnson, M. Huntzicker, Treasurer; Brownell, Telford, Vrieze, Klusmeyer, Manz, Neitzel, DeBoer, Krause, Drivas, Amberg, Jain, Zander, Miss McCalmont, Advisor.
 PICTURE MISSING: Nutt, Vice-President.

PICTURE MISSING: Mr. Brown, Advisor.

K. F. S.

Important men—the K.F.S. Though few in number this year, you see them everywhere—singing in the cafeteria—serenading the girls in the dormitories after hours—sponsoring record hops—selling defense stamps—and even putting on assembly programs that drew 100% attendance—versatile, aren't they?

FIRST ROW: Louis Stacker, Editor; Jean Herring, Florine Lindow, Editor; Marian Lee, Lila Danielson, Associate Editor; Ruth Te Beest.

We edit . . . the Annual

Did you ever see so many papers piled in such disorder—and so many people working together? No, it's not an office force in the Pentagon, but the Tower staff trying to meet its deadline . . . wonder whose copy that group of proof-readers is laughing at? What a sense of humor people have when they've been working excessively . . . lucky girls, sorting all those servicemen's pictures . . . mmm, food!—never knew that lunch went with the work or that late-leaves were given for staff members and volunteers. We wish we had less trouble getting those write-ups OK'd. . . Here's hoping our editors will some day be rewarded for all their worry and responsibility. You know, Tower is a heck of a lot of work, but darn it, it's fun!

FIRST ROW: Miller, Meyn, Editor; Herring, Powers.

THIRD ROW: Kopischke, Richardson, L. Nelson, Adams, Gochmeyer, Erickson, Sackett, Krieh, Mr. Baker, Spencer.

FOURTH ROW: Hougard, Lybest.

Writing our stories and attending to the regular STOUTONIA meetings are just a small part of the job which we STOUTONIA members face. The effort to create stories from sparse news notes—piling the burden of the linotype upon our able Rip—wondering at Lube's cleverness at being assigned to interviews with male guests—stretching the paper supply—all are important in the development of the newspaper which rolls off the presses each Friday morning just in time to meet the deadline. How that mailing list expanded this year! Servicemen, alumni, and former faculty members of Stout, wherever they have been, have looked forward to the weekly arrival of the STOUTONIA.

These we honor

EICHELBERGER SCHOLARSHIP

Happy little trio with brains plus personality! Four men and women from the junior and senior classes are honored annually with Eichelberger awards in recognition of their outstanding scholarship and character. Where are the men? Provisions have been made for them, too. They will utilize their scholarships after the war.

PHI UPSILON OMICRON

High excitement prevailed at Lynwood as special delivery messages invited us to join PHI U, and on Homecoming Sunday when we wended our way to impressive initiation ceremonies. Sending the opaque projector slides and the textile boxes to home economics teachers in the State, holding professional meetings, editing a semi-annual Newsletter, and planning spring picnics for freshmen and seniors commanded our attention this year. Yes, fond memories will return whenever we gaze upon the golden pin symbolizing PHI UPSILON OMICRON, national fraternity for professional home economists.

EPSILON PI TAU

Every industrial arts student considers it a privilege to wear the key of the national honorary fraternity, EPSILON PI TAU. During the present year the Theta Chapter was handicapped in its activities by a shortage of student members; most of the absent ones were serving their country, but the few who remained during the year published a Christmas Newsletter, held a spring conference and gave the traditional faculty-sponsored party.

ALPHA PSI OMEGA

We specialized in thriller plays this year . . . the murders in Nine Girls kept spectators on the edges of their seats, and Cry Havoc was not a play to put one to sleep. Twenty-five per cent of the proceeds from the latter play found its way to the coffers of the Stage Door Canteen. Remember the wild scurry for stage properties, the anxiety over the late arrival of the G.I. suits, the frantic last minute makeup problems? No, they were soon forgotten in the deluge of praises after the presentations.

We love good music

STOUT SYMPHONIC SINGERS

FIRST ROW: Dundeboon, Eason, Meyn, Milnes, Esser, Hunt, Quilling, Rowe, Richmond, Neuenberg, Riels, Hooy, Kellie

SECOND ROW: Wedgewell, Edberg, Skerstad, Rouse, Lehnay, Lindlow, Sengstad, Roderick, Hergensmu, Miller, Ryk

THIRD ROW: Hunt, To Host, Johnson, Zander, Bell, Hurdickson, Kyle, Gallekson, Glusow, Lee, Linder, Brumfield, Keating

FOURTH ROW: Larson, Bracken, Myrneski Brown, Eush, Halverson, Storker, Ahl, Warden, Brickner, Kaper, Munsell, Eidekum, De Bora, Westland

GIVEN: The S.S.S. in a war-time situation.

TO FIND: Male voices.

SOLUTION: Women tenors.

DISCUSSION: A slight mental confusion at the outset when Mr. Cooke called for the "men" to sing their parts . . . a Christmas concert, impressive as always, with the myriad candle flames casting a holy light over the auditorium . . . the glow on the faces of the audience when Sky Anchors Away, The Army Air Corps Song, and Man to Man were played and sung . . . the thrill of singing for the Wilkie-for-President campaign rally . . . the careful plans for the choir and orchestra trip, and then the hilarious bus ride to Madison . . . our apparent nonchalance at the whistles of the service men we entertained, and the memories they reinstated of star after star in the implied galaxy of our Service Flag of S.S.S. alumni.

MR. HAROLD R. COOKE, Director of Music

SHOUT ORCHESTRA

FIRST ROW: Clove Ginnow, Alfred Elliot, Anita Brinken, Minnie Brownell, Bill Halverson, Helen Dahl, Joseph Spordel, Bob Bryan.

SECOND ROW: Harry Warden, Jean Thompson, Ila Jerde, Mary Reichling, Dick Roen, Pollyann Poyle, Eugene Kopschickie, Pyretilla Oestmator.

THIRD ROW: Mildred DeBour, Pianist; Harold Cooke, Director; Nancy Roberts, Minnie Strand

CO-ED BAND

FIRST ROW: Joan Thompson, Ila Jerde, Althea Edler, Marjorie Manz, Loris Palmer, Marjorie Brownell, Pollyann Boyle, Priscilla Oettmeier, Eleanor Kopischkie.

SECOND ROW: Ruth Klinner, Mildred DeBoer, Marcella Kammerude, Joyce Miller, Helen Biehl, Sarah Speidel, Joyce Gullickson, Mary Reichling, Mary Huntzicker, Jeanne Kane.

THIRD ROW: Nancy Roberts, Mary Engebretson, Harlene Richards, Ann Hart, Bess Frano.

Budding women musicians and voice hopefuls. . . We in the Vocal Ensemble practiced our do, re, mi's faithfully every Wednesday afternoon with the hope of being chosen for Symphonic Singers in the near future. We in the Co-ed Band strutted our stuff at Homecoming and basketball games . . . those Blue Devil sweat shirts were not much protection against the breezes enroute to Riverside, but the chills were forgotten when we cooked up a little jam-session to entertain the homecoming crowd.

VOCAL ENSEMBLE

FIRST ROW: Marjorie Powers, Evelyn Schreiber, Ila Jerde, Donna Haywood, Mary Medlie, Ruth Klinner, Rosemary Hebert.

Stout's spirit reigned . .

Homescoming! And despite the war, the weekend was filled with the true Stout spirit that makes our college the kind of place to which alumni wish to return. There was no freshman bonfire, no football team to dominate the day. Instead of listening to football pep talks, we listened to speeches given by returning servicemen. On both Friday and Saturday, alumni returned, wandered around the campus and met at fraternal breakfasts and luncheons. There was a hilarious student assembly and a parade to Riverdale Park where a picnic replaced the traditional football game. Later we retired to the gym for the annual Homescoming Dance. Our campus was gay all weekend, but beneath that gaiety coursed the constant undercurrent of thoughts about Stout men, fighting on the other side in order that we might again enjoy Homescoming with all its pre-war traditions.

Not all is work

The crowds were large, the music good, and the fun-level high at the Masked Ball, the Accessory Dance, and the Barn Dance. We went to town, too, at roller skating in the city Armory where we planned for crowds large enough for the expansive floor—and we were never disappointed, nor were the crowds disappointed if hilarious laughter means much. . . . And for contrast, there were the ever-enticing Wednesday tea parties, with a knack for friendliness and quiet, well-mannered living.

That Stout has always been a center of community life was shown when the auditorium and halls overflowed with farmers and townspeople who gathered to hear Wendel Willkie give his presidential campaign-speech. Mrs. Willkie accompanied her illustrious husband and lived up to her reputation of being one of the Nation's best dressed women.

The bond sales zoomed over the Dunn County quota when rides in a jeep were promised the purchasers. . . . Ah, those glorious picnics in spring and fall with the smell of woodsmoke . . . and the refreshing dips in Stout's excellent pool.

Our address is . . . Tower Hall

FIRST ROW: Martin Brown, Alvin Aiki, Bill Masek, Frank Dumszmann, Robert Meek, Buster Hagtware, Tad Miyazaki, Louis Stacker.

SECOND ROW: Bernard Baessen, Roland Krieb, Leslie Katakuru, Harry Warden, Mana Minami, Paul Erickson.

More famous than "One Man's Family" is the "Fourteen Man Family" at Tower Hall. In spite of study there's never a dull moment. All routine is broken and spiced by Masek's trumpet practice, the Hawaiians' vocalizing, Warden's wailing clarinet, midnight snacks, and the inevitable bull sessions about gals and love, and love and gals, and gals and life in general.

. . . . Lynwood Hall

MRS. GIST
Preceptress

The tantalizing odor of coffee being wafted through the halls . . . excitement over long distance phone calls . . . the rush for bridge tables after meals . . . the excitement of a date once in a blue moon . . . Tad's familiar warning whistle echoing through the halls . . . late leaves when someone's man in uniform is home on furlough . . . what are we talking about? Why, Lynwood Hall!

... Tainter Hall

MISS PHILLIPS, Freecopies

Lake Menomin echoes the sounds of Tainter Hall's twenty-three girl residents . . . "Who'll lend me saddle shoes size six?" . . . "I'd trade my allowance for a date" . . . "Oh, I flunked that Chem test" . . . "Telephone, Jean" . . . "How's for a coke?" . . . "Shh! food! we've raided the kitchen again" . . . "Where's that darn turtle?" . . . "Scram! Here comes Miss Phillips to douse the lights" . . . "Gee, I'm tired."

. . . . Tainter Annex

The flash of diamonds . . . corsages and bouquets from distant places . . . special deliveries from that Certain Someone . . . dozens of heads popping over the balcony the minute the doorbell rings after hours . . . boxes of food from home . . . the mad dash for the dining room on cold winter mornings . . . the job of telephone duty on Saturday afternoons. Whatta life—living with sixty-four girls under one roof!

We earn a rest

Menomonie is a haven to the lover of nature. Autumn and spring days bring with them that call of the open sky . . . and students flock to Wakonda or Riverside for picnics. Some stroll leisurely down shaded byways to Paradise Valley or paddle their canoes across Lake Menomonie into the shadowy coves up the river.
